Translating and the Computer 12
Applying Technology to the Translation Process
CBI Conference Centre, London, 8th – 9th November 1990

Programme

Keynote paper: Machine Translation and Machine-Aided Translation - What's going on Jun-ichi Tsujii

Session 1: Technology in Eastern Europe
Chaired by Isabella Moore

Translation and Computers: an overview of the Polish translation scene
Bogdan Chojna

The growing range of document preparation systems
Philippa Moss

Session 2: Text transfer
Chaired by David Hickman

Optical Character Recognition
Peter Laurie

Document conversion
Peter Laurie and David Hickman

Setting up a Mailbox network
Peter Barber

Online data exchange
David Hickman

Session 3: Machine translation now
Chaired by Professor Jacques Durand

aslib
MANAGING INFORMATION

Language technology products in the European market
Brigitte Engelien

Machine translation of natural languages: the TOVNA MTS solution
Ami Segal

Session 4: Human factors
Chaired by Pamela Mayorcas

The long-term effects of working with computers
Gunnela Westlander

Putting the VIM into AVIMA
Andrew Evans and Dimitri Theologitis

Session 5: Managing the translation process
Chaired by Ulla Magnusson Murray

GEPRO - a computerised system for controlling the production of translations in the European Parliament
Barry Wilson

Translation quality - how can we tell it's good enough?
Peter Kahl

Multimedia/Multilanguage publishing for the 1990s Kent Taylor

aslib
MANAGING INFORMATION